

Sports Changing Rooms at Onepoto, North Shore, Auckland

Architect: Hugh Byrd

Dip Arch PhD NZRAB

Located in the centre of a small extinct volcano, the sports changing rooms are the focus for community activities.

The construction exploits natural and local products such as the volcanic rock contained in stainless steel gabions.

The roof awnings serve several purposes: to increase rainwater harvesting area, to provide shade for spectator seating and for solar panels.

Short-listed for the NZIA sustainability award.
